

FALLS HEIR TO TWO MILLIONS

Ferona E. Hall Made Wealthy by Death of Relative.

SINCE THEN SHE HAS LIVED WILD LIFE IN THE WEST.

From a gilded palace on Commercial street, Miss Ferona E. Hall will step into an eastern mansion and claim a fortune of more than $2,000,000. Rather than face the scorn of society, this young woman, when but a girl, left home and wealth to spend years roaming the wayward paths. Being sole heir to millions left by a rich grandfather, the woman has determined to cast off the fetters of the dark life and once more try to regain the station that she foregoes.

Miss Hall, who for months past has lived under an assumed name in this city, claims to be the granddaughter and sole heir of the late Colonel J. K. Hall of Columbus, O., who died in that city a week ago, leaving an estate of $1,000,000 cash and a like amount in property.

Returns to Claim Millions.

After the death of the millionaire the executors of the estate, believing that Miss Hall was here attending some social affair, attempted to locate her. Every effort was unavailing. A newspaper with a notice of the colonel's death found its way into the Commercial street house. With this first news of her fortune Miss Hall hurried to the telegraph office to discover that telegrams had been sent to her and that every school in the city had been searched for her.

She immediately sent a message to Attorney M. C. Rooney, who was her grandfather's legal adviser, at Columbus, telling him of her whereabouts. She has received a reply from him assuring her that she is the only living heir to the fortune and urging her to come to Columbus and claim it. Miss Hall expects to leave for her old home next Monday and to spend the remainder of her life in the city that she says are hers.

The young woman, who is but 28 years of age, has spent the last ten years wandering over the western country without home or people. Her story is that of a beautiful young girl, led astray by a faithless lover and driven from her home of luxury and wealth by shame.

She Loved, But Not Wisely.

"My mother died when I was but 6 weeks old," said Miss Hall, in telling her story last night. "My father died in Scotland two years later. My grandfather, who had already made a fortune in Ireland, took me to his home. Grandmother was a mother to me until I was 18 years of age. Then I met the man who was to be my husband. He thought me in school and he supported me and my two children. I have known for years that some day this fortune would be mine."

"I have often wished," laughed the woman, "that I had married before I got the money, for I know now that if any one marries me it will be for the money. I think I will go to Europe, where no one knows I have a cent, and pick out a husband there. I could not get one here that wouldn't be after the money."

To Live in the Old Home.

When asked what she was going to do with her money she laughingly replied: "Well, I guess I will have to buy an automobile and take a trip to England. I expect to go back home and live in the beautiful house that I have there and take care of my children."
